A 2025 Memorandum to the US State department concerning the imminent catastrophic implosion of the United States and collapse of its allies between June and September of 2025.

This letter is written under great concern for the welfare of the United States of America and is in regards to the imminent catastrophe that awaits the country and its geopolitical allies in Europe, the Middle east, and Asia. This implosion is expected to take place in the summer of 2025 and will include a slew of events that will impact the demographic layout of the country and the status of the current world order. The current zeitgeist that has been developing like an aggressive cancer since 2014 has reached critical mass and is fully crystalized into the perceptions of everyday Americans. No longer can the average American walk down the street without his outlook being completely clouded by the nationalistic and tribalistic framework that has been fostered by extremist elements embedded into the primary media and social channels of popular culture. This has led to an acute division of the country along racial, class, and ideological lines, such that the final remnant whom have held firm to the color-blind meritocratic principles are now in danger of being swept away by the wave of identity-fueled radicalization that has gripped the country. Keep in mind the radicalization process for the individual. It involves the individual's reception of divisive information from media channels, followed by its affirmation upon encountering a major event whereby the recipient of that information is either inconvenienced or downright victiminized by someone outside of their demographic—with little to no reprisals carried out against the perpetrator—either by law enforcement or public sentiment. This event radicalizes the individual and changes his perception of reality, such that they can no longer deny that there exists a racial/ethnic/class/religious battle in society. They thus becomes part and parcel of the "revolution", and in reaction to experiencing this injuctice, they become very radical and sometimes violent, unable to accept any notion of a reality that would contradict their awakening. In this case, a rubicon is crossed and a breaking point is reached. Even those who have consigned themselves as the objective "casual observer" can and will be infected by this radicalization process because of the momentum that it has been allowed to gain in public discourse. Now when the average American goes out, he begins to see those who don't look like him or share his views as enemies. Every mean glance, or rude remark, or inconvenience encountered becomes an affront to his creed or nationality, justifying his new awakening. Every act of criminality he sees, he now consigns it to all and everything outside of his creed and nationality. This radicalization dynamic is happening at record-breaking speed right now and very soon, the general state of America will be fragmented into different nation states. Here is another major conondrum—the more the radicalization spreads, the more valid greviences become, making it harder to introduce any idea that contradicts the outlooks of the radicalized. For example "Black Lives Matter" proclaims all whites/non-blacks are racist. That notion is then amplified in mainstream media. Blacks hear it. It changes their perception and now many of them begin to see all inconveniences/victimization as having a racial connotation. Now racially motivated, many blacks then resort to harrassing non-blacks/whites in public spaces, with many resorting to violent crime. It becomes pervasive and now non-blacks and whites begin to counter and publicly introduce the notion that blacks are violent. Their perception then changes, and some of them start behaving hostile towards blacks after inconvenience or victimization, leaving little room to dilineate between racially motivated black behavior and black behavior in general. This dynamic creates a feedback loop, making it impossible for anyone to dismiss ethnic overtones in everyday life, positive or negative interaction. This dynamic is eventually applied between all groups at odds with each other, leading to a paradigm of insularity where peple stick with their own kind, eventually fomenting their new tribal outlook as an awakening. In many ways, because of the feedback loop involved, the greviences of the radicalized become objectively valid. This is where the problem is and why it is next to impossible to de-radicalize anyone once it reaches this point.

For those who don't know what America's implosion will look like. Here is what happens. Citizens begin forming communities, and demonstrations against a social problem or injustice begin to increase. These public displays become more and more confrontational, but the difference between this case and the wave of demonstrations previous, is that the groups involved now will be much more organized and insulated. This is what I am trying to convey in this letter—that groups are very much mobilzed in an unprecendented manner at the moment. But here is where the tipping point is reached. In intervening in these public demonstration which have become riots, law enforcement is forced to launch a major crackdown, leading to civilian casualties. The group which they act against more severely will be the group that goes on the war path against the establishment. So in the ensuing days, those paramility groups associated with the victims of the crackdown begin setting up checkpoints on highways. Other battalions begin raiding local administration buildings and police stations, seizing the arms there. Many police even join the paramilitary groups. They then successfully secure various parts of the country and begin expanding and raiding more administration buildings and kidnapping local officials and declaring a new republic. Later, the national guard is deployed and launches attacks on paramility positions, which results in these paramilitary groups gaining more sympathizers. The paramilitary now begin to encourage supporters to take up arms in other parts of the country. Many oblige and start carrying out terror attacks in various areas to bring attention to the cause. Now things are heated. Reports of the US armed forces conducting air strikes on paramility positions begin to circulate and make international headlines. Detractors against the cause of the paramilitary group begin to launch crackdowns of their own, going out and harrasing any members of their community whom they have associated with the extremists. Businesses begin putting up signs stating who they will not service. Reports of a coup in the US navy and Air Force begin to circulate, as sympathizers for the paramilitary seek to procure armaments. It becomes complete chaos in the United States. The stock market crashes, food supply lines are cut, starvation and famine, total segregation. There is nowhere to hide.

Meanwhile, seeing the carnage that is happening in America, America's adversaries seize the opportunity. Russia launches another full-scale invasion of Ukraine, seizing the entire country in 72 hours, before sending troops to reinstall Assad back in Syria. Iran and its shiite proxies then launch an unprecendented military strike against Israel and seizes the entire country in a multi-front assault from Yemen, Syria, Iraq, and Iran. North Korea invades South Korea, while China seizes Taiwan in a blitzkreig that the US is in no position to respond to. Russia and China deplay nuclear submaries to the pacfic. The entire world order has changed and the US is a shell of its former self in just a matter of months.

All of this is scheduled to happen in the summer of 2025 between June 5th and September 4th when the planet Mars is within 30 degrees of the lunar node, that is—if nothing changes. In fact, the axis has already planned to make this outcome a reality.

Mars within 30 degrees of the lunar node is an alignment that I have discovered to coincide with major social, economic and political upheaval. Oct 7, 9/11, the 2005 London bombings, the 2015 Paris terror attack, pearl harbor, 1929 stock market crash, etc all happened when Mars was within 30 degrees of the lunarr node. Not only did I discover this influence at the societal level, I also surmised the influence at the individial level, and how it shapes our most negative personality characteristics. I devised a system based on this framework, called the Mars 360 Religious and Social System, which is a book every person should read. I mentioned before, that when a person becomes radicalized, all the negative characteristics he sees in other people in everyday life, he consigns to it an ethnic connotation. The feedback loop involved has a way of validating his perceptions. At the moment, this is pervasive in America, but can be slowed by allowing discourse about separating individuals into archetypes, whereby it is accepted that Mars can influence a person to have a slouchy disposition, abrasive personality, opinionated view, restless character, lazy lifestyle, etc. The Mars 360 system creates these new demographics that could help antagnoize the growing tribal sentiments, keep it in check to where it doesn't spill over into the social and public arena and create havoc. Of course, in the case of America, it is important to not use Mars 360 to completely dismiss tribal sentiments, but only to try and keep it in check. Completely dismissing social problems, perceieved or otherwise, at the moment will only fuel more radicalization, but having some checks on it should be deemed appropriate. Over time, hopefully it can stabilize the country. The reader may consider this to be the ramblings of a madman, but just remember that I was only person to predict the 2023 October 7th Hamas attack, warning Israeli officials about the alignment since 2019. I even wrote a memoradum to the state of Israel warning about the scale of the Hamas attack, entitled "A 2023 Memorandum to the State of Israel concerning the existence and influence of Mars on regional security and Gaza militant rocket fire. Also, a warning that severe escalation could occur between August and November of 2023"
